

Vulva offer

for the brave women...

Apparently, a very long time ago people did not associate the sexual act with childbirth. One event was too distant in time from the other. Therefore, the woman was the most important person in the creation of a new life as she was capable of giving birth to a new human being. The man's role seemed unimportant. Due to that theory the woman's position in the social, political and religious life was significant. There are hypotheses speaking of the times of women's reign and the period is known as matriarchy. According to the Swiss lawyer, the creator of the theory of matriarchy Johann Jacob Bachofen, matriarchy was to be the foundation of universal liberty and equality, peace and affection, as well as care of all the members of a community. It was supposed to appreciate nature and emotionality. Female fertility – the ability to give birth to a new child, to create a new man was of a divine character. The divine aspect was also enjoyed by the gateway through which man arrived in this world, i.e. the vagina. It was a symbolic beginning of the world and a source of inspiration. Therefore, it followed that the vagina was to be respected and worshipped. Once patriarchy took over, the woman's role dramatically diminished. The vagina was burdened with blame and shame and associated with sin and impurity.
